Dave is the immediate past President of Worklaw® Network, an international network of independent law firms with over 350 attorneys that limit their practice to management-side labor and employment law. The Worklaw® Network's website is found at www.worklawnetwork.com.

Dave has served as an adjunct professor of employment discrimination law at Willamette University's School of Law and has published and given numerous presentations on employment law related issues.

In the community, Dave is a panel member for a local Youth Diversion Program that seeks to prevent youth from becoming repeat criminal offenders. He also is active with Birch Community Services, his church, and his children's sports teams and was the President of the Wilsonville Youth Basketball Association from 2005-2010.
