In 2000, Jackie Damm relocated from Chicago to Portland and is one of the firm's managing partners. Jackie focuses her practice on representing both public and private sector employers in collective bargaining negotiations, National Labor Relations Board proceedings, Employment Relations Board proceedings, and labor arbitrations. Jackie also has developed a significant practice in preventive labor and employment law, which includes advising clients on labor contract administration, leave law issues, employment discrimination, personnel policies and procedures, and union-organizing campaigns. Jackie has been listed in Chambers USA, America's Leading Business Lawyers since 2004; Oregon Super Lawyers since 2009; and Best Lawyers in America since 2011.

Jackie grew up in Madison, Wisconsin and attended the University of Wisconsin where she earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1987 with majors in philosophy and English literature. After college, she moved to Minneapolis, Minnesota, and in 1992, she earned her Juris Doctor degree, cum laude, from the University of Minnesota School of Law.

After law school, Jackie moved to Chicago and focused her practice on management-side labor and employment law.

Jackie was a contributing editor to the 1993 cumulative supplement to The Developing Labor Law, and wrote the chapter entitled "Presenting a Case at Arbitration" for the H.B. Maynard Industrial Engineering Handbook (5th ed.) She also has given numerous presentations on labor law issues, including collective bargaining, preventive strategies, how to present a case at arbitration, and workplace violence.
